

CV

Xiaoyan Qian-Jenny (the member of IAAP-International Analytical Psychology of Association & ISST-International Society for Sandplay Therapy) is an accomplished international clinical psychologist with 17 years of professional experiences spanning multiple continents. As a dually certified Jungian Analyst and Sandplay Therapist, she brings a unique depth of expertise to her practice. Her extensive analytical training was completed across prestigious institutes in Switzerland, the United States, and her native China. Holding a Master's degree in “Jungian and Post-Jungian Studies” from the University of Essex, UK, she is currently pursuing doctoral research in Transpersonal Psychology at Sofia University, USA. Based in the Yangtze River Delta region, she has maintained successful private practices in Suzhou, Wuxi, and Shanghai, where she integrates Jungian analysis with sandplay therapy to address complex psychological needs. Her multicultural background and specialized training enable her to bridge Western psychological frameworks with Eastern philosophical perspectives in clinical practice.
